Women policy Tracker

On Responsive Policies and Programs
During the New COVID-19 Pandemic

WOMEN POLICY TRACKER ON RESPONSIVE POLICIES & PROGRAMS DURING THE NEW COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Introduction

The COVID-19 outbreak has an impact on both men and women. However, it impacts women in different ways. In Egypt, women make up around 42.4% of human doctors and 91.1% nursing staff of who are actually working for the Ministry of Health, in addition to 73.1% of nursing staff in hospitals and therapeutic facilities in the private sector are women². Women in the health sector are more likely to be exposed to the virus and dealing with enormous stress balancing paid and unpaid work roles. Furthermore, overwhelmed health services may limit access to family planning services and to contraceptives, potentially leading to a rise in fertility rates and the socio-economic impact on individuals, households and communities. COVID-19 is expected to interrupted access of women to reproductive healthcare services and commodities. Given that pregnant women are more likely to have contact with health services (antenatal care and delivery), they can be greatly exposed to infections in health facilities which may discourage attendance.

COVID-19 poses a serious threat to women's engagement in economic activities, especially in informal sectors, and gender gaps can be increased in livelihoods. In Egypt, 18.1% of women are heads of households³. 40.9% of females' total non-agricultural employment is in informal employment and 33.9% of females' employment is vulnerable employment. Meanwhile 6.7% of female employment in industry; 36.4% of females' employment is in agriculture; while 56.8% of female employment in services;⁴ Egyptian women also represent 70% of the paid care sector workforce (mainly as teachers, health and social workers). Moreover, the paid care sector in Egypt represents around 28–31 % of overall female employment. Women are almost four times more likely than men to work in the paid care sector.⁵

Recognizing that, the Egyptian government started to take stringent procedures and measures to contain and prevent the spread of COVID-19 according to the pace of its spread, while considering all segments needs and women in specific during the execution of those measures. The government was particularly keen to integrate & mainstream all the needs of Egyptian women into the entire decision making process needed and the implementation of programs in order to ensure women's empowerment & protection against the socio-economic and psychological repercussions of the new COVID-19 pandemic.

During the meeting held on 22 March 2020 in celebration of the Egyptian Women's Day, the speech of the President of the Republic conveyed a number of messages that in general represent a mechanism to face the risks of spread of COVID-19. The President also issued a set of economic and social protection decrees to support and protect all society, and recognized the role and status of the Egyptian woman and the importance of continuing her supportive role during this current phase.

¹ The fourth edition of the report tracked programs and policies from March 14 until July 6, 2020 while the fifth edition tracked the period from the start of the tracker's launch until January 2021.

Since the National Council for Women is the national machinery concerned with proposing the government public policy on women's development pursuant to Law No. 30 of 2018, NCW has prepared a policy paper regarding Egypt's rapid response to women's situation during COVID-19 outbreak, which includes an analysis of the status quo. In this paper, NCW has presented a number of proposed response measures, whether immediate or middle-term responses, for concerned all line ministries & government institutions, regarding the following pillars:

1. Impact on human endowment (health, education and social protection) through applying/upscaling the already existing support programs regarding all health aspects including psychological, mental & physical as well as reproductive health care services; social protection programs; particularly response measures for older women; women with disabilities; pregnant women, and women of reproductive age, and education, to deal with the consequences of the school lockdown and the potential girls' dropout.
2. Women's voice & agency (Violence Against Women, Leadership and Representation in decision making during crisis management) women's participation in the decision making process can enhance the health security control mechanisms, examination and protection of health, and ensure women's accessibility to the relevant information. Also response measures can be adopted to provide psychosocial, legal and advisory support for women who may be subject to violence resulting from the implications of social conditions generated by the precautionary measures taken to respond to COVID-19 outbreak.
3. Impact on economic opportunities: the proposed response interventions depend on the already existing mechanisms as well as introducing new ones to support the women workers whose livelihoods have been affected or whose income from freelance work has declined. Alternative solutions should be proposed to address the economic downturn and its impact on working women in the formal or informal sector.
4. Promoting data and knowledge: promoting the compilation of data designed by sex, age and disability-disaggregated data on COVID-19, including tracking the emergency response measures, support policy research & social innovation; monitoring & evaluating the impact of the COVID-19; and conduct public opinion surveys in order to recognize the differences in exposure and treatment & help design the preventive measures accordingly.

In this regard, NCW established the "Women policy tracker on Responsive Policies and Programs During COVID-19 Pandemic" to serve the following purposes:

- 1) Monitor all issued policies and procedures responsive to the needs of Egyptian women directly and/or indirectly in light of the efforts made to reduce the spread of COVID-19.
- 2) Design an easier tool that can be used as reference to all women related issued policies that can be used by decision makers for a more collaborative & comprehensive vision on means of moving forward.
- 3) Document the efforts & highlight the outcome of the coordinated efforts of the government on women related policies to protect them & their families from the COVID-19
- 4) Reflect on all those policies with necessary supporting programs & initiatives

All procedures, policies and decisions included in this tracker are divided into:

- Procedures, policies and new decisions taken for the first time
- Procedures, policies, and decisions that were upscaled or expanded ⁶

⁶ All measures that are given the upscaled icons are only tracked in this report with its given date but not counted within the number of measures to avoid duplication

The major women related responsive policies and measures taken by the Egyptian Government

Since the outbreak of COVID-19, the Ministry of Health and Population (MoHP) in collaboration with all the concerned bodies constantly issues measures and programs to combat the spread of the virus. Moreover, MoHP issues all the data on the numbers of COVID-19 cases transparently and disaggregated by sex & age; in addition to producing awareness raising videos & info graphs about the virus.

⁷ Last measure tracker within the Fourth Edition of the tracker

During the period between July - September 2020, the Egyptian government began to take several decisions and policies regarding coexisting with the virus & the ways to gradually return to normal life in conjunction with the state's plan to coexist with the COVID-19, including allowing the opening of nurseries, sporting clubs and youth centers in accordance with health controls and conditions, resuming adult education activities, the return of literacy classes as well as announcing the start of the education procedures and the dependence on the use of modern technology in the learning process and capitalizing on the educational platforms launched by the ministry of education for students since the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic.

During this period, the Egyptian government succeeded, through major steps regarding the constitutional entitlements, to organize the relevant parliamentary/legislative council elections process, as elections for the Senate were organized for the first time since the amendment of the Egyptian constitution in 2019, and elections to the House of Representatives (Egyptian Parliament) were also organized after the end of its first legislative term. This year, The National Elections Authority has developed a plan, in cooperation with all concerned authorities & institutions, to stress that all measures and means to prevent the virus are taken while citizens exercise their constitutional right to complete the voting and election process.

With regard to the Senate, law No. 141 of 2020 had been passed to regulate the Senate, which allocated 10% representation for women. The result of the completion of the election process and the formation of the Senate was that women reached 14% after the President of the Republic appointed double the quota allocated to women within presidential appointments.

With regard to the House of Representatives (Egyptian Parliament), the recent constitutional amendments of 2019 had stipulated the allocation of 25% of the quota for the representation of women. A number of provisions of the Law Regulating the Exercise of Political Rights, the House of Representatives Law and the National Elections Commission Law have been amended in line with the constitutional amendments. The result of the completion of the House of Representatives elections was that women reached 27% in the House of Representatives.

During November 2020, the Egyptian Ministry of Health announced its readiness for the second wave of the COVID-19, and the availability of an adequate stock of medicines.

The Egyptian government gradually began to take decisions that would limit the spread of the virus in its second wave, the most important of which was the Prime Minister Decision No. 2701 of 2020, which stipulated the allocation of one billion pounds from public reserves to face different aspects of spending needed for the COVID-19 pandemic, reducing the number of workers in the state's administrative apparatus and prohibiting holding any parties, festivals, celebrations or events. It also stipulated that citizens must wear protective masks while they are in public and private spaces, in means of transportation and establishments. Anyone who violates these decisions will be punished with a financial penalty. Official judicial control means have been established to reconcile these violations. The Egyptian government also announced other measures, such as the postponement of educational exams until after the mid-year vacation and the launch of the Egyptian Drug Authority's hotline to provide a service to receive complaints and inquiries from citizens regarding the presence of drug deficiencies and others. Among the state's preparations for the next phase is what is included in the directions of the President of the Republic to complete remote study through e-learning platforms in all public & private universities, and private higher institutes and schools, starting from the beginning of the new year and postponing the exams for the educational stages after the mid-year vacation if the level of infection with the virus are stable or postponed for the second school year, and the first and second secondary school examinations are taken from home thanks to the tablet's system.

At the beginning of 2021, the Ministry of Justice agreed to grant judicial law enforcement authorities to the mayors of cities, centers and neighborhoods and the deputies thereof to the Ministry of Local Development with regard to crimes related to their jobs and departments by applying precautionary measures to limit the spread of the COVID-19 and implementing the decisions of the Supreme Committee for COVID-19 Crisis Management headed by the Prime Minister, on top of which is the emphasis on canceling all celebrations and gatherings, and taking measures to close any facility that organizes any celebration.

The Ministry of Health announced the launch of the President's initiative to "follow up on domestic isolation cases of patients with the emerging COVID-19 " under the slogan of 100 million health "in the governorates (Cairo, Giza, and Qalyubia) and gradually launch it in the rest of the governorates later, and allocate 20 thousand medical teams to go to homes for cases Home isolation for those infected with COVID-19 and follow-up through 5400 health units and a medical center, and the stationing of 800 medical convoys. The Ministry of Health and Population issued a "guide for home isolation for cases of COVID-19 infection in schools." In fact, half a million copies of the guide have been printed and are being distributed to the directorates in the governorates.

The Ministry of Planning and Economic Development is also updating Egypt's Vision 2030 in line with the economic and social changes after the success of the economic reform program in facing the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, and in line with the goals that the Egyptian state aspires to achieve with a number of economic experts.
