Profile

With 25 years of experience as the Founder and Executive Chairman of eVision, I lead a team of experts in developing and implementing innovative infrastructure solutions to enable straight through processing operations for digital financial services to thrive. From transactions reconciliation & disputes handling to swift payments management to AML sanction screening & combating financial crime including trade based money laundering & fraud detection; to enterprise payment hubs, capital markets and insurance infrastructure to digital banking customer experience solutions; eVision has been at the helm of digitally transforming back office operations, risk management, and compliance in the banking industry. Partnering with global players and cutting-edge infrastructure software, eVision has enabled banks to focus on delivering exceptional customer experiences and drive business growth in a safe environment.

I also currently serve as a Board Member and the Economic & Environment committees Chair at the National Council for Women since 2016, where I lead women's financial inclusion and economic empowerment through the design & implementation of a friendly secure digital group platform for saving, lending & investment by the rural women of Egypt. The concept is to bring all participants into the formal sector where deposits are made into a group bank account and where the platform holds all the financial transaction logs and records. Through organizing the ground into formal groups, "Ta7wisha" plays a very important role in educating the participants, through well trained facilitators, on financial matters and who encourage women to start small group revenue generating activities to multiply their savings. Environment friendly and sustainable projects' ideas for financing are introduced to the participants with ready made profitable feasibility studies, training & market analysis tools to encourage the women to kickstart their group village businesses.

Chair, National Council for Women

National Council for Women, Egypt

Spearheading the economic and environment committees, i have worked with the NCW teams to introduce environment friendly and sustainable profitable projects. To be able to formalize and organize the ground, the NCW adopted re-inventing village savings and loans for women by women using secure digital infrastructure, to financially include and economically empower the rural women of Egypt by adopting green projects.

Assistant Officer

Sep 1993 - Sep 1999

Social Fund for Development, Cairo, Egypt

Worked for the Egypt Social Fund for Development established in 1992 as the fund of funds for the Economic & Social Restructure Developmet Program, committed to by the GoE and the World Bank followed by all donors From all the globe. The Fund would finance 3 main national programs in a natural chronological approach starting with:

Public Works Development to build and upgrade village infrastructure Including roads, water pipelines, canals, curbing the Nile banks from erosion, among others.

Community & Social Development to build awareness and knowledge around the healthy village, and avail educational programs and medical services to upgrade the human quality of life.

Small & Medium Enterprise Development to build capacities, finance capital, market products and avail outlets for distribution.

Over 6 years, with total funds of more than USD1.5 billion, I had the privilege to work in all 3 programs in the order of the designed concept, spanning diverse experiences from managing public infrastructure works and community social development projects, to micro & sme loans program, to donor management and financial control of funds; all this experience has very much shaped my deep belief in sustainable development.
